

BLUMENTHAL
PERFORMING ARTS

Andrea (Andie) Maloney joined the Blumenthal team as the Vice President of Education in February of 2020. She previously served as Senior Arts Director for the Morrison YMCA/Ballantyne Arts Center's theatre, dance, cooking and visual arts programs and arts integrated preschool. After completing a BA in Theatre Education at UNC Charlotte, she served over ten years at Children's Theatre of Charlotte in multiple roles including Teaching Artist and Education Program Coordinator. Andie has had the pleasure of presenting at multiple national conferences including the Kennedy Center's VSA Intersections conference. She was honored to receive the 2019 YMCA Diversity, Inclusion and Global award for her commitment to access and inclusion for all. Andie's husband, Ryan, also works in the entertainment industry as a technical director, designer, and educator. They live in Mint Hill and ensure they are never alone or bored by sharing their home with three sons and dog.
